1. Three levels of support for vulnerable/pushed out learners

Bringing 'pushed out' learners into the mainstream structure

Innovating within the mainstream structure

Working outside of the mainstream structure

Society should ensure that all children and young people receive the support they need in order to make a fulfilling transition to adulthood"

3. Why are they vulnerable?

Society should ensure that all children and young people receive the support they need in order to make a fulfilling transition to adulthood"

3. Why are they vulnerable?

1. A gap in basic needs:

“If they don’t have anywhere to sleep, if they don’t have beds at home, if they don’t have food... how can you expect them to achieve academically?” - Duza Stosic

2. A gap in socialisation:

“to be able to sit in a room quietly with other people and to be able to walk down corridors through a thousand other people” – Louise Thomas

3. A gap in basic skills or specialist needs:

“They’re not learning because of their behaviour and then actually, come 16, for some reason we manage to get a cognitive assessment...and we discover they had severe dyslexia or they had a working memory of a tiny size.” – Fiona McFarlane

4. Institutional Practices:

“Schools... are relatively large organisations, with large classes and they have to cater for the majority. - Anna Smee

Society should ensure that all children and young people receive the support they need in order to make a fulfilling transition to adulthood”

4. Bringing vulnerable learners into the mainstream

- Fair admissions

“This school is not for you. Your child would be happier elsewhere” - Academies Commission

- A safe and structured environment

“The schools are in chaos and you just ... all you’re focusing on is the chaos in the school... What you’ve got to do is remove all of that. Once you remove the chaos then you can start to dig down as to why the behaviour is happening.” - Peter Hughes

- Support that bridges the gap

“These parents are the ones who have the money to go for assessment... That’s not a fair system, it’s not equitable at all” - Julia Hunt

- The hook of success

“Hooks should be a way in to excellence across the board rather than an ‘instead of’ or ‘opt-out’.” – The Alternative Should Not be Inferior

Society should ensure that all children and young people receive the support they need in order to make a fulfilling transition to adulthood”

info@lkmco.org - +44(0)7793 370459 - @LKMco – www.lkmco.org.ukv

5. Innovating within the mainstream

- The resourcing trap...
- Alternatives within the mainstream
- Partnerships
  - Other service providers
  - Employers

Respondents' perceptions of the importance and schools' ability to provide in different areas (average score out of 7) (n~33)

Society should ensure that all children and young people receive the support they need in order to make a fulfilling transition to adulthood

info@lkmco.org - +44(0)7793 370459 - @LKMco - www.lkmco.org.uk

6. Working outside of the mainstream

- Relationship to other school types/forms of provision

“It would be wonderful from an Alternative Provider perspective to not be the outsider from education but to be part of the solution... It would be wonderful to be commissioned to be part of a group of academies or a cluster of schools where we would be their preferred provider to enhance those young people that are not quite fitting within the jigsaw.”

- Keith Griffiths

- Effective deployment

- Quality control
- Information flow
- Two-way traffic?

Society should ensure that all children and young people receive the support they need in order to make a fulfilling transition to adulthood”

7. Summary

- Tiers
- Barrier → Solution: Assess (don't just identify), act, review and tweak.
- Find schools doing this stuff well, visit and learn from them!
